HOW WE MAY USE AND DISCLOSE MEDICAL INFORMATION ABOUT YOU

The following categories describe different ways that we use and disclose medical information. Not every use or disclosure in a category will be listed. However, all of the ways we are permitted to use and disclose information will fall within one of the categories.

For Treatment. We may disclose medical information about you to Care Providers AIHC refers to you so they can take care of. We also may disclose medical information about you to others who may be involved in your care, such as family members or others provided you have consented to such disclosure. These entities include physicians, hospitals, nursing homes, pharmacies or clinical labs.

For Payment. We may use and disclose medical information about you so that the treatment and services you receive may be billed to and payment may be collected from you, an insurance company or a third party. For example, we may need to give your long term care insurance provider information about the care you received so your long term care insurance provider will pay the Care Provider, a third party or reimburse you for the services. We may also tell your long term care insurance provider about a change in your care to determine whether your plan will cover the service.

Treatment Alternatives. We may use and disclose medical information to tell you about or recommend possible treatment options or alternatives that may be of interest to you.

Individuals Involved in Your Care or Payment for Your Care. We may also give information to someone who helps pay for your care. In addition, we may disclose medical information about you to an entity assisting in a disaster relief effort so that your family can be notified about your condition, status and location.

To Avert a Serious Threat to Health or Safety. We may use and disclose medical information about you when necessary to prevent a serious threat to your health and safety or the health and safety of the public or another person. Any disclosure, however, would only be to someone able to help prevent the threat.
